FOREIGN SOCIETIES
as of
JANUARY 1st, 1936

FOREWORD

The listings published herein are of the names and performing right society affiliations, so far as we know them, of authors, composers and publishers of musical works throughout the world.

There is also a listing of all societies, so far as known to us, throughout the world dealing with or representing so-called "performing rights", together with their addresses as listed with us. Not all of them are affiliated with the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. As to such as are so affiliated, ASCAP represents in the United States of America such rights as the respective members of the foreign societies have conveyed to their organizations for the United States.

The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers in preparing this list has used all possible caution to prevent errors and to assure accurate listings but it does not warrant or guarantee that any of the information herein contained is correct.

It will be noted that the listings are shown in three columns: (1) the name of the author, composer or publisher; (2) an initial "A", "C" or "E", as the case may be; and (3) the alphabetical designation of the society with which the individual is associated.

These initial designations have the following significance:

- "A" — Author
- "C" — Composer
- "E" — Publisher (Editor)
- "A—C" — Author and Composer
- "A—E" — Author and Publisher
- "C—E" — Composer and Publisher
- "C—O" — Copyright Owner
- "EXC" — Assignee
- "X" — Arranger
- "(*)" — Deceased
- "(H)" — Heir (Inheriting Rights)
- "(x)" — Pseudonym
- "(#)" — Publishers against whose names this symbol appears are represented in the United States by Associated Music Publishers, Inc., (25 West 45th Street, New York), except as to Harmonie Verlag (Berlin) which is represented by the Society of European Stage Authors and Composers, Inc., (113 West 42nd Street, New York).
- "(##)" — G. Ricordi & C. (Milan) as distinguished from G. Ricordi, Inc. (New York) and G. Ricordi & Co. Ltd. (London). The rights of the first named for the United States of America are represented by Dr. Renato Tasselli, (14 West 45th Street, New York); the rights of the second and third named are represented in the U. S. A. by ASCAP.

NOTE: Names listed, but ruled through with erasure line and without any of above symbols are of firms and individuals formerly identified as indicated.

Of the foreign performing right societies, ASCAP DOES NOT presently have reciprocal agreements with the following:

Argentina	ACYAM	Asociacion Argentina de Autores y Compositores de Musica, Victoria 1176, Buenos Aires, Argentina.
Australia	APRA	Australasian Performing Right Association, National Building, 250 Pitt Street, Sydney, Australia.

It is our hope that a substantial service will be rendered to licensees of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers through publication of this listing. So far as we know, it is the first publication of such a listing that has ever been attempted, and errors incident to translation and unavoidable delays in conducting correspondence with foreign countries, may have occurred. We shall be grateful to have any such called promptly to our attention.

The copyright in a musical work is just as definitely personal property, established as such by the laws of all civilized countries, as is any other form of property. The unlawful use of these properties may result in redress to the copyright owner in very substantial damages.

A public performance for purposes of profit of a copyrighted musical work may not lawfully be presented in the United States except by license of the copyright owner, and the purpose of this publication is to assist those engaged in the business of presenting such public performances in exercising precaution to avoid the commission of infringements.

The United States Copyright Law of 1909. as presently in effect, requires the owner of copyright in a musical work upon publication thereof to imprint upon the title page, or the first page of the music a notice in the following form: "Copyright (year) by (name of owner)". Such an imprint will be found, in the designated space (generally upon the first page of the music), upon all copyrighted music published in the United States, whether of domestic or foreign origin.

It is therefore a simple procedure for the user of music in public performances for purposes of profit to avoid illegal performances through (a) ascertaining from the music to be used in the rendition the name of the copyright owner, (b) checking this name against the list of those from whom he holds licenses to perform and, (c) if license of that particular owner is not held either to refrain from performing the work or take steps to secure license authorizing the performance.

The term of copyright protection under United States law is (a) 28 years from the date of first publication, plus (b) an additional 28 years if the extended period has been duly applied for. Thus, under the law as at present in effect, the maximum period of protection is 56 years. Accordingly, if a work shows by the imprinted notice of copyright to have been in publication in excess of 56 years the users may safely assume it to be non-copyright and entirely free for such use as they may care to make of it.

It is assumed that those who operate public amusement enterprises in which copyright music is necessarily used are quite as anxious to conduct their business in a legal and ethical manner as are the proprietors of any other sort of business. It is to the end that they may be assisted in avoiding either innocent or deliberate infringements of the rights of others that we have undertaken this publication.

Every licensee of this Society is invited at all times to call upon us for any information, assistance or advice which we may be able to furnish as regards any question involving the use of copyrighted music in public performances, or in any other matter in which it seems we might be of service.

INFORMATION

1. Musical Copyright Owners.

The membership of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers is by no means inclusive of all musical copyright owners, either of the United States or of any of the foreign countries with the Societies of which it has reciprocal relationships.

The fact of non-membership of any musical copyright owner in any of these Societies does not affect in the slightest the full validity of any of his rights under such copyright. In other words, it must not be assumed that simply because a musical work is the copyright of some non-member of the Societies the owner is willing that it may be publicly performed without a license, or that such an owner has waived any of his rights to license such public performance.

Copyright ownership being so simple of ascertainment—by reference to the printed notice thereof to be found on the published music—users of music in public performances should make it the invariable rule that those who build their programs must check the copyright ownership against list of those from whom license to perform is held, and if valid license is not in effect in respect to that particular owner either to eliminate the work from the program or take steps to secure a proper license before the performance occurs. Only thus may responsibility for infringement be avoided.

2. Bibliography of Copyright.

For the convenience of users of music in public performances, and their attorneys, there follows a list of text and other books relating to copyright, and citation of various decisions in point as to public performances. Neither list is complete—both are intended to provide merely a general background in the subject:

The 1909 Copyright Law of the United States of America

(In relation to the public performance of copyrighted music)

For the information of users of copyrighted music in public performances for purpose of profit, the following extracts are quoted from the Copyright Law of the United States of America.

No attempt is made to construe or interpret the language of the Law. It is here presented just exactly as the Law is written.

The power of Congress to enact Copyright Law derives from the Constitution (Article 1, Section 8), which provides:

"The Congress shall have power:
* * * To promote the progress of science and useful arts, BY SECURING FOR LIMITED TIMES TO AUTHORS and inventors THE EXCLUSIVE RIGHT TO THEIR respective WRITINGS and discoveries."

The Law itself provides:

SECTION 1—

"That any person entitled thereto, upon complying with the provisions of this Act, shall have the exclusive right:

- (a) To print, reprint, publish, copy and vend the copyrighted work;
- (b) * * * *
- (c) * * * *
- (d) * * * *
- (e) To perform the copyrighted

work publicly for profit if it be a musical composition; and for the purpose of public performance for profit
* * * *

SECTION 3—

"That the copyright provided by this Act shall protect all the copyrightable component parts of the work copyrighted, and all matter therein in which copyright is already subsisting, but without extending the duration or scope of such copyright * * * "

SECTION 5—

"That the application for registration shall specify to which of the following classes the work in which copyright is claimed belongs:

* * * *

(d) Dramatic or dramatico-musical compositions;

(e) Musical compositions;
* * * *

SECTION 6—

"That * * * arrangements * * * or other versions of works in the public domain, or of copyrighted works when produced with the consent of the proprietor of the copyright in such works, or works republished with new matter, shall be regarded as new works subject to copyright under the provisions of this Act * * * "

Foreign Copyrights

The 1909 Copyright Law of the United States of America provides for reciprocity of copyright protection with the citizens of foreign states and nations by Section 8, in the following language:

"* * *, That the copyright secured by this Act shall extend to the work of an author or proprietor who is a citizen or subject of a foreign state or nation, only:

"(a) When an alien author or proprietor shall be domiciled within the United States at the time of the first publication of his work; or

"(b) When the foreign state or nation of which such author or proprietor is a citizen or subject grants, * * *, to citizens of the United States the benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as to its own citizens, * * *, or when such foreign state or nation is a party to an international agreement which provides for reciprocity in the granting of copyright, by the terms of which agreement the United States may, at its pleasure, become a party thereto.

"The existence of the reciprocal conditions aforesaid shall be determined by the President of the United States, by proclamation made from time to time, as the purposes of this Act may require."

The Society in an endeavor to secure absolutely official information as to the status of foreign copyrights, under date of May 2nd, 1932, requested the Department of State at Washington to advise it regarding the present effective status of copyright treaties with foreign countries. There follows for the information of all concerned an exact copy of the response received under date of May 14th, 1932: (File No. TD 800.54411/34).

"The Department has received your letter of May 2nd, 1932, in which you request information as to the effective date of the establishment of copyright reciprocity by Presidential Proclamation between the United States and other countries, and you also request to be informed whether the Pan American Copyright Convention has ever been sufficiently ratified by all of the parties thereto as to justify the statement that it is actually in effect.

"Presidential Proclamations have been issued applicable to the following countries, those marked with an asterisk including the provision based on Section 1 (e) as well as that on Section 8. The date given opposite each country is the date of the Proclamation and in cases where the effective date of the Proclamation differs from the date of the Proclamation, the effective date is given in parentheses immediately after the date of the Proclamation:
